RATIFICATION!

Grand Mass Meeting!

Over Five Thousand Loyal Voters in Council--The Old Flag Unfurled! The First Gun Fired for Grant and Colfax! The Campaign Brilliantly Opened!--Allegheny County Pledged for Ten Thousand Majority for the Union--Full Reports of the Speeches--Resolutions adopted. &c., &c., &c.

The campaign of 1868 has earnestly, brilliantly opened in Western Pennsylvania, and the thundering sound of the first gun for Grant, Colfax and the Union, which pealed forth from City Hall on Saturday night, will reecho from hill to hill till every loyal heart in old Allegheny shall awake and be up and at the wily enemy so often crushed beneath the weight of the overwhelming majorities which made her name glorious in darker days of yore. The old flag has been unfurled to the breeze and more than five thousand honest earnest and patriotic hearts have greeted it with the same gushing, uncontrollable, burning enthusiasm as bade the nation take cheer and hope when Sumter was assailed and treason flaunted her odious banner in sight of the Republic's Capital, and all things looked dreary for the cause of Liberty, Truth and Justice. With victory emblazoned on its fair untarnished folds and "no surrender" on its flaunting streamer, five thousand voters of Allegheny County have lifted their voices to declare to the American people that they will stand by it, fight under it, till the common enemy or the country shall again stand dismayed, disheartened and vanquished, and the same conquering Grant shall be lifted into the chair once graced by a Washington and a Lincoln, and again declared by one universal shout of acclamation the hero of the conflict.

To say that the grand and suddenly improvised meeting at City Hall on Saturday night, to ratify the Chicago platform adopted and candidates put forward, was a success, will fail to give any proper idea of the occasion. The commodious hall was occupied to its fullest capacity. Every seat was taken long before the announced hour for the meeting, and every inch of available space for standing room was occupied by a voter, and many failed to obtain admittance. We estimated the number in attendance at between five and six thousand, and these all gathered at one day's notice. The enthusiasm was general. Every person present realized the importance of the occasion and vied with his neighbor in giving a proper manifestation of patriotic fervor and delight when the names of Grant and Colfax were mentioned by the orators of the evening. At times the very building seemed to rock to and fro with the reverberating huzzas which went up for the hero of the war and the statesman who so fittingly occupied a place on the ticket with him.

The meeting effected the following

On assuming the Chair, Mr. Miller made the following brief address:

FELLOW CITIZENS:—The occasion upon which we have met is a most auspicious one. We have come together to ratify the nomination of that great soldier, great statesman, Ulysses S. Grant. I verily believe and I think you all agree with me, that will be called upon a second time to secure the preservation of the union and the rights of the States. That time, gentlemen, will be in the month of November next, and no doubt you will elect him by a more unprecedented majority to occupy the chair which the present incumbent so ably fills. We have no fears for the future. Dark things may have looked during the last few weeks, and however dark they may have been, the people are right, and we have in the person of Ulysses S. Grant and Schuyler Colfax the best hope for the future. There is no doubt of their triumphant election. Wherefore, gentlemen, is the soldier who has served under that great soldier, called upon to take the polls with a vote to cast for a leader? Every soldier who has fought under the victorious Grant will rally when he ballots for that distinguished leader—leader to victory. He never bowed his banner to be lowered in the presence of any enemy, foreign or domestic. Gentlemen, I might as well ask you, will you follow such a man? It is within the range of possibility that Seymour can be defeated. There will be a majority rolled up for these candidates that even an Abraham Lincoln knew not of. I ask you, gentlemen, if it cannot be done?

MAJ. HAGGERTY'S ADDRESS.

Maj. James Haggerty, of the city of New York, was now introduced, and spoke as follows:

Mr. President and Fellow-Citizens:—I was impressed into the service to-day by your fellow-townsman, Maj. Brown, just as I was making my way as fast as the cars could take me in the direction of my home, New York, after having assisted, with others, in the nomination for the Presidency of the United States the great soldier of the age, and after having helped to put on the ticket with him, as an assistant, one of the best scholars and statesmen of the American republic, Schuyler Colfax. I can hardly realize the fact that canvassing has again begun. I can hardly realize that the American people are again engaged in the great constitutional work of being instructed with regard to the merits of the candidates and the necessity of electing such men. Soldiers who have fought for the honor and dignity of this Republic are to do service in the coming Fall through the ballot box. It is a pity that we were ever driven from the ballot box to the sword. It is a pity that it ever became necessary for the American people to defend the dignity and value of their government by an appeal to arms. Yet we do feel that we are not guilty before God or man for striking a blow in defence of our country. The lesson, my good friends, is to you. It is a lesson to the youth and to the old men, that they teach their children never to compromise with treason. The Southern people had grown practically aristocratic. They got it into their heads that they were the ruling power, not only over the black men but likewise over the white men of the country, and took it for granted that the Northern men were cowards. I hardly blame them for this, because under Democratic rule they had every encouragement to their opinions, so that I cannot blame Southern men for holding the view that Northern men were cowards. Did not the North grant to the South every promise it ever asked? Did not the North go down on its knees nearly every time to the South, until these Southern men got such ideas into their heads? And, my friends, the Southern men were deep in their mistake. They thought we were so engrossed in trade, so taken up in the pursuit of gain, that we would never fight for an idea, a principle. That was their mistake. When they fired upon our flag, when they raised the hand of treason to strike the heart of our nation down, then they found that there was a spirit of dignity, of manliness here in the North which they had little dreamed of. Our people met the issue. They said, now that you have fired upon our flag, now that you have insulted it, by the God of our fathers, we will raise that insulted flag of Sumter, and we will carry it through the smoke of battle and plant it again by the pillars of the nation. Then they found out that in the North there was manhood, that there was a spirit of obedience to justice that they little dreamed of. Now, my friends, I am not going to dwell on this old fact very long. But I do want to point out the fact, and my friends, it is a marked thing, and the historian will deal with it grandly I am sure. We did not seek at first to do away with the cause of this rebellion. We sought simply to maintain the idea of the Union, nothing more. We did not ask for the liberty of this man or that man, but it was simply the Union, and for that idea we fought. In the broiling sun I have shovelled in ditches when negroes were lolling in the sun, when parties were crying out "you must not touch the negro." It would be unconstitutional to touch him. That great element had to be idle while the soldiers dug trenches. But you must not touch the negro. You must carry on the war constitutionally, it was recommended, and I may as well say that my recommendation was rejected. That element to the Democratic powers that they ought brought into service. I then with the constitution in it, and I then said when the soldiers received command they should receive them in this way: Attention battallion! Gentlemen, have you read the constitution? If so, charge bayonets! Gentlemen, did you find that you can charge upon the rebels consiitutionally? If so, charge bayonets! I also suggested that our balls be sent to Washington, to the War Department, that they might not be unconstitutionally heavy. [Laughter.] But all my suggestions were rejected. My friends, all this while the American people were becoming educated. The American people were learning this one fact, that if they would be strong they must be just, and in the spirit of the Constitution, give liberty to all men without regard to color. We never experienced victory until we did that one act of justice, and put arms into the hands of the black man and said here is a chance for you to vindicate yourself and the honor of the nation. These men did so at Vicksburg, did convince the world of their manhood as well as their bravery. Even then the Democratic party cried out against the negro. We must never use the negro. But God in his goodness throughly educated us. General Grant became more and more willing to use every element within our power. He knew no defeat and has not yet known defeat, and never will know defeat. [Cheers.] This man took hold of our armies, and with this element of strength the army advanced, and even then this Democratic party was claiming the great power of their "great little Mac," who never could take even a hog-pen unless he were to advance through entrenchments. [Laughter.] This Democratic party, claiming power on this continent, again in these States, this Democratic party was resolving in convention "that the war for the Union was a failure." Though they had been foremost to prove themselves false prophets, yet they kept on declaiming that the war for the Union was a failure; and they dashed against the Radical progressive element of this Government and sought to kill the party and prejudice the minds of the people.

But all this while the great Republican party was raising the people "to the height of that great argument," to put into the mouths of the oppressed and weary of the world these mighty truths. Even while the Republican party was doing the great work, the Democratic party was declaiming that this war was a failure and should be put down. You may ask why is it, that I, as an Irishman, joined the Republican party? It was because I would give that liberty to the least that I ask for myself. It was because I could not advocate liberty for myself, while I argued against liberty for the humblest child of God. That was why I became a Republican, and that is why I to-day remain a Republican, because I would see justice done to men, and because the Democratic party has done more to cast conjecture upon the Irish name than all the other enemies of Ireland combined. The Democratic party has used the Irish as "hewers of wood and drawers of water."

The Democratic party has filled the minds of the simple-hearted Irishman with wrong ideas, which would become the downfall of this nation if they should prevail. One word to the American people upon this point. I deny that the Irish are as guilty as you. The Irish come to this country a simple-hearted, confiding people, and the Democratic party meets them with bland words and gives them the peculiar interpretation of Democracy, tells them that they will be the life of the nation. We have adhered to that idea because we thought it a loyal idea. They prejudice the mind of the Irishman against the poor colored man by such arguments as these: that the black man will come to the North and compete with the Irish in labor, work cheaper than they do, and become their rivals. Thus they appeal to the Irish character. I believe, sir, that the Irish people of America can put a stop to such things.

I say this in no boastful spirit. I say it because I believe it, and I say that the Democrat, when he draws distinctions between the black man and the white, insults the Irishman. I don't believe those invidious distinctions which would have every man stand or fall for himself. If I find a man like Frederick Douglas, who can make a speech such as few other men in the United States can make, then, I say, God gave him power to make that speech and power to exercise it. All these educators are sent for wise purposes. Those black men against whom we were all prejudiced became the life of this nation, shouldered their muskets and went down to the battle-field and fought with great courage and great loyalty. Now, that this government has been maintained, now that the flag is floating over every arsenal in the country, we are not going to fail in that great act of justice and put back the men found loyal in the hour of our country's trial. Hence we have selected as our standard bearers, men who will never compromise with traitors for a moment. The teachings of the Democracy are peculiar. Did you ever hear of such a man as Clay Dean? He is one of the dirtiest, filthiest men I know. I suppose that he takes an annual wash. He is a seedy vested, dirty coated fellow. His clothing and his person are indices to his mind. Well, he got up before an audience of Democrats one day, and walked up and down the platform with a stride designed to be very imposing, took out of his pocket a pocket-book well filled. He took out a fifty-dollar bill, held it up before the audience, and asked the question "do you call that money"? No! said this Democratic audience. They had to be true to their party, though they insulted the principles of common sense. No! said he, it is not worth the ink that is wasted on the paper. It is of no value whatever. It is a mere rag, this fifty dollar bill.

I did not think so, but thought it might be of some value. But said he its of no value, and put it back into his pocket book, and next into his pocket quietly, and hid it from his audience. He might well say "thank heaven, I have got my pocket-book back from this audience." [Laughter.] An Irishman in the back part of the audience rises up and says, "Mister Spaker, may I ask you a question?" "Certainly," said the speaker, striking an attitude that the ghost of Hamlet's father might envy. "Do you think that this is not money?" "Then," said he, "you seem to take damned good care of it.;" [Laughter.] So that query, started by common sense, coming in contact with this man's theory, exploded it; and all their other arguments are capable of such explosion. I don't come here to palm myself off as a working man. All the Democratic speakers tell their audiences that they are working men. I have worked, and still do work just as little as I possibly can. I never had a "hankering" after very hard work. The Democratic party always claim to be the poor man's friend and all that kind of stuff. But, I ask you to judge the Republican party by its fruit, and the Democratic party by its fruit, and see which is best; the honest laboring man of labor most. I which dignifies consider that question thoroughly. The Republican party has nothing to fear from this investigation. We see to it that all the laborers of the Republic receive a fair compensation for their labor. This is one of the grand principles of the Republican party. Now let us see what the Republican party has accomplished for the workingmen of the world. I will tell you a story to illustrate. In 1864 I went to the old country. I wanted to stand once more by the grave of my father and my mother. It was a dangerous thing for me to do this. I had spoken words in America which might endanger my life now. I visited England, and while there a friend of mine said to me: "Would you like to go to Parliament and hear the speaking there?" I soon found myself in the visitors' gallery. While I was sitting there a small, dapper little gentleman got up and I heard him say, "may it please the honorable gentleman, on a former occasion when I made some remarks, the honorable member seemed to take exception to me and construed those remarks in a most offensive manner and drag me in a point of fact from my connection." Thought I, that fellow would make a healthy ward politician. While he was on his feet he made some remarks against the United States, and while I was sitting and looking at him, and thinking of how we fought at Gettysburg and Antietam to defend the government he was denouncing, in defence of the principles he decried, there appeared a broad-shouldered, clear-eyed, ruddy-faced man. Said I, surely God never put it into a face like that to say ought against America. He commenced speaking in a deep, rolling voice, that echoed through that great room like small thunder. "We have words to speak for America and the working men of America."

I asked my friend "who is that gentleman?" "That is John Bright." I felt very much like whistling "Yankee Doodle." For I can tell you, my friends, that though my tongue is tipped with a bit of the brogue, my heart keeps good time to the music of liberty in America. I wanted to whistle "Yankee Doodle" there, if nothing more, and we made a rush to the street, to discuss the subject. Said I, "here is a man who was against us when we were trying to vindicate our Government; then that contemptible little fellow was crying out against the American Union, against the workingmen of England, against the workingmen of Ireland, and against the workingmen of Scotland and all the world. But this great, broad-shouldered, large-hearted gentleman, John Bright, was holding up the idea that the South would be conquered, that slavery would be abolished, and that the Republican party would be triumphant. Now there is just the difference between "tweedle dum" and "tweedle dee."

On the one side you have the aristocrats of England sympathizing with the copperheads of America. On the other side you have the workingmen of England and the Republican party of America. The aristocrats know very well that the vindication of liberty in America must furnish a powerful argument to John Bright. Now if the principles of the Democratic party had been true, that the war for the Union was a failure, I ask you, solemnly, where would have been the argument of John Bright, where the argument of Garibaldi? The workingmen of England, led by John Bright, sympathised with us in our struggle and wished us God speed. Now, good friends, which was right, the aristocrats of England or the workingmen of England? The inspiration of that English tempest, which is rising to topple over that throne, this, and the vindication of liberty in America, all saw to be the vindication of the oppressed throughout all the world.

They saw, they knew well, that the vindication of America would be an argument in the mouths of the weary and oppressed everywhere, which all their enemies could not gainsay or resist. So, my friends, we see the Republican party to-day speaking through its ten thousand voices. The Republican party says to the poor or struggling, wherever they are, wherever they crouch beneath the shadows of thrones, the Republican party says to such, "Behold your vindication, your argument; lift up your heads. Oh! poor man, here is the sword which will strike terror among all principalities and powers." I, my friends, have but little doubt that the Democrats, nominate whom they will, are to be defeated. If the Republican party could survive Andrew Johnson, then "the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it."

I say if the Republican party could maintain itself after such a blow as Andrew Johnson gave it, then it is good for a hundred years. But the Republican party, like the Democratic party, will exist only so long as it behaves itself. Just so long as it is true to Justice, Liberty, and not a day longer. Let me illustrate by a story. Two Irishmen who were in the habit of getting drunk on Saturday night, strange as it may appear, were walking along the street one Saturday night, and one says to the other, "I am going right over to sign the pledge." "What," says the other, "going to give up your liberty?" "I don't care; I am going to sign the pledge anyhow!" So, good to his word, he signed the pledge, and his reformation separated him from his old friend. They did not meet for a year, and when they did meet, the one who had reformed had on a good hat, pants, boots, a wallet well-filled and a watch in his pocket. So, in order to remind his old friend of his change, they talked, and he said "I am doing very well." We Irishmen always like time when we are doing anything. It was time for him to move on, so he looked at his watch. "That is a fine watch you carry in your pocket." "Yes," was the answer, "and if I had always behaved myself since I came to America I might have had the town clock in my pocket." Now, my friends, if the Democratic party had behaved itself it might have had the town clock in its pocket. Now, the Republican party shall have that clock in its pocket just as long as it maintains the principles of liberty, and no longer. This one point let us all remember, that it is our duty to take care of those poor and oppressed men of want in the Southern States. We must remember that though some of us may be on the hillside and on the mountain tops, our homes bathed in the sunlight, that that dark ignorant race is only at the base of the mountain. By God's help, and in God's good time, they shall ascend to the mountain top, and bathe their heads in the glorious sunlight. God, who is no respecter of persons, will not see them destroyed. God may deal with to severely as a nation, but if we are true us the duties of the hour, then success shall be ours. Our flag shall become the emblem of liberty to the many oppressed ones, and if it ever again should appear on the battle-field, it shall appear as a sign of victory to the downtrodden. If it ever again becomes necessary to draw the sword in defence of American liberty, then let the nations know that with the millions of redeemed slaves in America, we shall march forward to certain victory. We must be just in order to be strong. Intention is the criterion by which to judge America. This is the mark of a new manhood. The elements of our [illegible] man, out of be taken from all quarters of the globe, from all languages, every-[illegible] are to be centered here, and the American man is to become irresistible in mind as well as in material resources. To those who see, as some do, that the late war is a dark blot upon our civilization, let me say that we did not seek war. When they quote from the sacred book, "Follow peace with all men," I ask them to remember that there is a moral interpretation to be put upon that text. When I left school to shoulder my musket I felt there were interests about to be sacrificed. A man should never be taught peace at the risk of shame to his own soul, or a violation of his integrity towards God. We could not resist unless we acted the coward. We chose rather to be first pure then peaceable. One word more before I sit down about the Democracy. To illustrate it. An Irishman was made a Democrat by the persuasion that it was the true hope of the country. I talked with him a little while after and he told me he had become a Republican. "Oh! yes, I picked up a book and read this in it, that one of the Southern statesmen called the honest men of the North mud-sills and small-fisted farmers. I won't go with a party which says that." A lawyer in one of our western towns had acquired considerable wealth in the honest practice of the law. [Laughter.] Why do you laugh? Because I say honest? That is the most conjectural thing I have met with for some months. I hope you don't mean to cast conjecture upon the lawyer. This lawyer had built himself a very nice house and the people from all parts of the country would say, "Go and see 'Squire B.'s house" when you go to town to do your marketing. So every market day there would be a crowd walking about this house. At last the lawyer got angry and said, "Do you think this is a church that you come gaping at it in this way every day?" The ubiquitous Irishman answers, "I thought it was until the Devil put his head out of the window." [Laughter.] Thus, a great many, if they will only closely watch and observe the Democratic party, its profession, they will find that the devil will put his head out of the window sometimes. They will soon discover the real animus of that party: that they are mere stragglers hanging upon the verge of this great Government. [I thank Andrew Johnson for that word "verge."] They will find that they are becoming smaller by degrees and beautifully less. They are just now purposing to get up a very peculiar ticket. They want a little war and a little peace. They are greatly troubled to know just what is the thing. They fear they will have too little of the one or two much of the other. I say to the Democratic party "no false colors." We will bring up your record against you everywhere. We have two men on our ticket for whom we have not to apologize. These Democrats have become wonderfully enlightened within the past few years. But, Democrats, you will find that you have caught a "tartar" unless you come out and make a clean breast of it before the people." In Milton's "Paradise Lost" we are told that there was a certain angel, who was a very cute angel, the old fellow next the Devil. Well, the Devil and he thought they would strike at the very root of humanity. Ithuriel was to guard the garden, and Devil sends scouts out which were to range over the land and sea and find what was in the garden, which evidently disturbed the peace of the garden. They found it was the Devil in the shape of a toad. The toad was touched with a spear and lo! out sprang the Devil. So if you apply the doctrine of absolute liberty for all men to these Democrats, the Democrat will leap out in all his naked deformity and treason. We trusted Andrew Johnson and got—well I don't know but we got what we deserved. Perhaps all was for the best. This very severe discipline to which we have been subjected may be the means of teaching us a great lesson. Certainly if "God loves him whom he chasteneth," then he loves the Republican party.

I know that I am from the city of New York. Though you may say that is a wicked city, yet I say it is the most pious in the country. Have'nt we got Fernando Wood there? A text of scripture says: "Where sin doth abound, grace doth much more abound;" hence I think we are going to succeed after a while, and clean out that city of New York, and make it a great Republican city, like this great Republican city of Pittsburgh. Go on then, do your great and good work cheerfully and hopefully. Go on bearing the standard of liberty on high, and the God of our fathers shall lead you on.

"Then up with the banner, bright, sparkling with stars,
Spread its fair emblems from mountain to shore,
Through the sunbeams let loud ring the nation's cry,
Union and liberty one ever more."

(Loud and prolonged applause.)

THE RESOLUTIONS.

At the conclusion of the masterly speech of the brave young Major Haggerty, the Committee on Resolutions returned and through Hon. T. J. Bigham reported the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the National Union Republican Party of Allegheny County heartily approves of the principles contained in the Platform adopted by the Chicago Convention as worthy of the support of all the loyal men of this Union who love liberty and hate oppression, who love their country and her institutions and desire this Republic to like among the nations of the earth as the noblest government ever established for the welfare of man.

Resolved, That in General Grant, the victorious soldier and statesmen, and in Schuyler Colfax, the tried patriot and honest man, we have candidates worthy of the support of the people who desire peace and harmony among the States of the Union, and rulers who will dignify the high places to which they are called and guide the country through all peril to prosperity and power.

Resolved, That it is the duty and it will be the pleasure of Republican Allegheny County, heartily responding to the pledge made in her behalf by her delegates at Chicago, to redeem the same by giving, in November next, a loyal majority of ten thousand votes for Grant, Colfax and the Union.

Pending the resolutions Mr. Bigham made a very spirited and patriotic speech, after which the report was unanimously adopted.

Major A. M. Brown being loudly called for, made his appearance and was received with such applause as must have made him feel assured that his course in advocating Colfax for the nomination at Chicago, and pledging Allegheny county for ten thousand majority, was fully sanctioned and endorsed by his fellow citizens here at home, where he is so widely known and respected. He made a brief speech congratulating the loyal people on the strength of the candidates put forward for their suffrages, and urging prompt, vigorous, active, unceasing work on the part of every Republican, so that our county may sustain its reputation as the banner district of the Union.

SPEECH OF GEN. E. N. LEE.

The next speaker introduced to the audience was Gen. E. N. Lee, a gifted son of Connecticut. He spoke glowingly of the candidates put forward and promised that every State in the Union would swing into line under that banner, excepting, perhaps, Kentucky, Maryland and Delaware. This coming from a Connecticut man, the speaker felt would sound strange, as the Governor of that State was a Democrat. The local causes which led to the late defeat of the Union Republicans presented fully explained, and [illegible] with Grant as a leader [illegible] the enemy with an overwhelming majority. The speaker entered into an argumentative and learned discourse on the Reconstruction question, and concluded his speech with a stirring appeal to all present to do their full duty in the great struggle just inaugurated.

During the remarks of General Lee an allusion was made to the candidates when the audience arose as one man and the wildest scene of enthusiasm was witnessed. Cheer on cheer rolled up, and thousands of arms and hats waved above the vast sea of faces. In no political assemblege have we ever witnessed such a grand and inspiring scene as was that.

There being loud and repeated calls for Judge Shannon, that gentleman came before the audience and made a brief speech, full of meaning and power, which received the heartiest response from his hearers. It was an effort worthy the oratorical finish and fame of the learned gentleman.

GEORGE H. STUART'S ADDRESS.

At the conclusion of the very able speech of General Lee, Major A. M. Brown introduced to the audience Mr. George H. Stuart, merchant, Philadelphia. He was received with a storm of applause, and spoke as follows:

Mr. President and fellow-citizens: I am no politician, but only a merchant. I make my speeches at the polls. But I thank God to know, as a Pennsylvanian, and especially as a Philadelphian, that your cities of Pittsburgh and Allegheny are met to ratify the nomination of Ulysses S. Grant and Schuyler Colfax. We will inaugurate them as President and Vice President on the fourth of March next. Our Democratic friends may as well save their powder, for there is no use putting up a candidate against General Grant. We will inscribe under his name what was there when he was marching through the South, "no surrender." Mr. Chairman and fellow-citizens, I believe that I had the honor of first mentioning these two men as our candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency in 1869. It was my privilege in the House of Representatives at Washington, two years and two months ago, in the sprihg of 1866, in conversation with General Grant and Speaker Colfax—Grant upon my right hand and Colfax upon my left—to say to them, "I shall make my ticket for the next campaign. This is our President," putting my hand upon General Grant, "and this is our Vice President," putting my hand upon Colfax. I had faith that so many gallant statesmen would come out under the influence of loyalty and place upon the banner of the Republican party the name of Colfax, which would ensure victory. I have a personal acquaintance with both of these gentlemen, and regard it as a great honor to know them intimately. Not only their public services, but their personal characters will be sure to lead the party to victory in the present crisis of our history. You say in Pittsburgh you will give ten thousand majority for the Union ticket. We will give ten thousand more in the city of brotherly love. We will roll up fifty thousand majority in the State of Pennsylvania. With three P's—Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Pennsylvania, we will help place Grant in the White House, Colfax in the Senate's chair, and thus secure three more P's—PEACE, PROSPERITY and PROGRESS in these United States of America. [Loud cheers.]

MAINE HEARD FROM.

In concluding his address, Judge Shannon introduced Mr. Lewis Barker, a returning delegate from Chicago, who had represented the State of Maine in the Convention, and had urged the claims of Hannibal Hamlin for the Vice Presidency. After paying just tribute to the worth of his favorite, the speaker lent hearty and unqualified endorsement to the ticket put forward, and promised, in no hesitating way, that Maine would pioneer the way in the cause of Justice and the Union, and greet her neighbors in September next with election returns that warm the loyal heart and prove the forerunner of national triumph for the patriotic Grant and the true-hearted and scholarly Colfax.

We regret that we have not the space at our control to furnish the verbatim report of the spirited and masterly effort of this best of all of America's off-hand, vigorous stump talkers.

The hour being late, the meeting adjourned with three cheers for Grant, three for Colfax, three for the Union, and three for the soldiers' friend, Curtin.

Thus has the campaign been gloriously and successfully opened. Let not the ball cease rolling, but organise and rally everywhere so that Allegheny county may make good the pledge made in her behalf to award Grant, Colfax and the Union the old fashioned majority of ten thousand.

FROM EUROPE.

ABYSSINIA.

EVACUATION BY THE BRITISH.

LONDON, May 23.—Sir Stafford Northcote, Secretary of State for India, received to-day an official dispatch from General Napier, commander of the Abyssinian expedition, dated Ashangi, May 5th. The General had just arrived there with the rear-guard of the returning British forces. The advance had reached Zoula, and the Fifth and Eighth native infantry had already embarked for Bombay. The remainder of the troops and stores which were being pushed forward would be shipped from Zoula rapidly, and the evacuation of the country would soon be effected. The wounded were doing well and rapidly becoming convalescent. The troops were in good health.

GERMANY.

CLOSE OF THE ZOLVERINE DIET.

BERLIN, May 23.—The Zolverine Diet has adjourned. The session was closed by King William, of Prussia, who made the customary speech, in which he said he hoped the results of the session would strengthen the sentiment of mutual trust between the people of the various States of the Confederation, destroy the prejudices which have existed in some portions of the country, and prove that the German, though apart in some interests, were one people, in warm brotherly feeling. The King closed by saying the rights entrusted to him by Germany would be sacredly exercised as his highest rule of action.

AUSTRALIA.

PRINCE ALFRED'S ATTEMPTED ASSASSIN EXECUTED.

LONDON, May 23.—Telegrams from Sydney, in anticipation of the overland mail, say Prince Alfred left for England in command of his ship, the Galitia. He was well. The attempted assassin of the Prince was executed on the 22d of April.

LATER DETAILS.

SYDNEY, May 24.—The efforts to prove insanity in the case of Barrett, the Clerkenwell conspirator, have failed, and his execution will take place at the expiration of the week for which he was respited.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 23, 1868.

CONVERSION OF SEVEN-THIRTIES.

On and after June 1st, the Treasury Department will be prepared to receive 7-30 notes falling due June 15 and July 15, 1868, for conversion into bonds dated July 1st, 1867, or July 1st, 1868, as parties may desire. The terms of conversion will be as follows: The interest on both series of notes will be allowed to July 1st, and bonds issued in exchange will bear interest from that date.

CURRENCY MATTERS.

The fractional currency issued for the week amounted to $431,500; forwarded, $1,121,429; United States notes forwarded, $696,248; National Bank notes issued, $82,550; fractional currency destroyed, $391,000. Internal Revenue receipts for the week, $3,204,256.

THE IMPEACHMENT.

Senator Sumner will to-morrow file an elaborate opinion in support of the conviction of Andrew Johnson. The Managers of impeachment have made another requisition upon the Western Union Telegraph Office for telegrams passing between certain parties named by the Managers, but the company has declined to make any further exhibit of private telegrams unless they shall be compelled to do so by due process of law.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.

The Volcanic Eruptions — Cessation of Earthquakes.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23.—The steamer Idaho brings Sandwich dates to May 9th.

The Honolulu Gazette says up to the 29th of April no further accounts had been received of volcanic action in Hawai. Earthquakes have ceased in violence and frequency, although the whole island was still moved with slight vibrations, and two severe shocks have been felt as far as Honolulu. There are reports that lava had again broken out in Kapapala, but they are not credited. Full details of the first eruptions more than confirm the accounts previously sent. At Kahuka, April 7th, lava burst forth through a fissure nearly three miles long, and ran in a few hours twelve miles from a height of thirty-eight hundred feet to the sea, where it caused a projection of half a mile.

Collections were making for the relief of sufferers by earthquakes at Honolulu. Three thousand dollars were raised in response to an appeal by Queen Emma.

Extensive Fire in New York.

[By telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

NEW YORK, May 24.—An extensive conflagration took place this morning at Pier 27, North river, destroying the offices and freight houses of the Neptune Steamship company. The propellor Oceanus, belonging to the Neptune line and plying between this city and Providence, R. I., was burned to the water's edge. The propellors Electra, of same line, and Thetis, of the Boston line, also took fire but were towed out into the stream and the fire was extinguished with trifling damage. A quantity of freight was also destroyed. The damage to the Neptune Steamship Company will reach $300,000; insurance not ascertained. Several commission merchants, who had offices on this and the adjoining pier, sustained heavy losses by the fire. The total damage is estimated at half a million of dollars.

Presbyterian Assembly.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, May 24.—In the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church yesterday, the report of the Board of Directors of Columbia Theological Seminary was presented. The Committee on Finance, the Treasurer of the Publication Board, the Board of Trustees of the Assembly and the Committee on Evangelical Labors all presented reports, which were read and adopted. No other important business was transacted.

Negro Thieves Shot.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MEMPHIS, May 24.—A burglar named Curtin, colored, who was under bonds for cattle stealing, was shot and killed to-day near the race track. A negro constable named Hayden, shot and mortally wounded another negro who tried to escape after being arrested this morning.

Lottery Broken Up.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, May 23.—France, Smith & Co. having disobeyed the injunction recently served, the Courts ordered their business broken up and wheels, &c., seized. They have ceased drawing in Kentucky and all concerned placed under arrest.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

We publish by request the following stanzas spoken by a boy at the late anniversary meeting of the lady managers of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Orphans Asylum. They were written by a lady. The allusions are to several of those excellent women whose devoted labors originated and whose untiring efforts have maintained and carried forward the noble charity to its present advanced state of prosperity and usefulness. The address, or poem, was to all these good ladies a pleasing surprise; it was not in the programme, nor had they any intimation of the treat that awaited them:

DEDICATED

TO THE MANAGERS OF THE PITTSBURGH AND ALLEGHENY ORPHAN ASYLUM.

Thirty-six years ago to-day!
Angels, tune another lay;
Seraphs, strike your harps for gladness!
Earth has so much less of sadness
Since thirty-six years ago to-day.
Oh, for lips of inspiration!
Oh, for holy instigation!
Oh, for words to tell with meaning
Of an act with Heavenly seeming—
How in years long since gone by
One with sympathizing eye;
O'er whose brow, serenely fair,
Fell her curls of dark brown hair,
How she entered dens of sickness;
How she pitied human weakness;
And, when their last friend departed,
Gathered home the broken-hearted,
Took the child that had no mother;
Took the sister and the brother;
All their little anguish healing,
With a more than mother's feeling.
At the holy sight, the Angels—
Cherub, Seraph, even Archangels
Pause to listen to the whisper—
Inasmuch as ye have done it to the "least of these of mine,"
Ye have done it, oh, ye loved ones, to the Prince of Heaven Divine.

There's a murmur of anguish, a low wailing cry—
"Oh, God, was I only created to die!
Must I leave thee my baby my nursling alone,
Bereft of thy mother, bereft of thy home?
Oh, God earth! Then spare me! I dare not thus go,
And leave these my children in sorrow and woe."
But the Healer was there, and with tenderest tone—
"Thy nurslings shall not be thus wretched and lone
"We'll watch them and guard them with tenderest hand.
"And guide their young feet to the far better land."
And the mother was gone, with a tear and a smile,
That whispered, they're safe in thy care for a while."
And who was the Healer? ah these ladies you see,
For they said to the Father, "we'll labor for Thee."
The talents Thou hast given are only in trust,
We'll suffer them not to be moulded in dust,
And with purpose and zeal these ladies have gone,
Determined to raise for the orphans a home.
Discouraged, cast down, yet god-like their will:
See what is accomplished by goodness and skill.
From lanes and from alleys, in sorrow and cold,
Are gathered these poor, weary lambs in the fold.
And the orphan forgets, in this magical rest,
That his mother lies low with the sod on her breast.

Now years have gone by since that morning in May:
Your eyes are less bright, and your tresses grown gray,
And many whose warm hearts beat happily then,
Have gone to their rest, from the dwellings of men
But their eyes from the Heavenly mansions of light
Look down on their children with holy delight.
And the Father who watcheth the fall of the sparrow,
Hath not left the lone orphan to mourn in sorrow;
But He sent these kind ladies in mercy and love
To take up the burdens of those now above:
And with feet never weary and bountiful hand,
Like angels of goodness they go through our land.
Like sunbeams of beauty and spirits of light,
A presence dispelling the shadows of night.
You have gone through the pathways of sorrow and sin,
Like flowers that bloomed where the snowdrifts have been
To the sin-blighted hovels of woe. You have come
And given each motherless wand'rer a home.
For the home that was founded this morning in May.
Though some of you are treading the verge of the grave;
Yet God will return you the blessings you gave:
With blessings He'll bless thee; with love thee will crown:
His own arm shall stay thee in death going down.
His right hand shall hold thee in crossing the river,
And lead thee in pastures of beauty forever.
The seraphs will strike on their harps and rejoice:
The angels, arch-angels, will list to the voice—
"Inasmuch as ye have done it to the least of these of mine,
Ye have done it, oh, ye loved ones, to the Prince of Heaven Divine."

RIVER NEWS.

Both rivers remain about stationary at this point with six feet in the Monongahela, and seven in the Allegheny. The weather continues cloudy, warm and unsettled, with strong indications at times of rain.

There has been no arrivals since Friday aside from the daily packets, and the R. C. Gray, for Louisuille, was the only departure. The St. Marys, from Cincinnati, was due last night, and will be found in port this morning.

The Grey Eagle arrived and departed for Parkersburg as usual.

The Emma No. 3, Capt. Jas. H. Marratta, is filling up rapidly for St. Louis, and she is announced to depart this evening. She is an excellent boat in all respects, and offers superior inducements to passengers. The Emma will be followed by the Messenger, Captain Jesse Dean.

The St. Marys, Capt. T. C. Sweeney, is the regular packet for Cincinnati to-day, leaving promptly at 5 p. m., and passengers and shippers should bear this fact in mind.

The following is Captain Reed's statement in regard to the collision between the Kate Putnam and the Belle of St. Louis:

"Wednesday night, near 12, passed the Belle St. Louis at St. Mary's, running in the middle of the river, head pointed to the Illinois shore; the Belle St. Louis coming down, apparently keeping the Missouri side. Suddenly she changed her course toward the Illinois shore, across our bow, and whistled twice, and instantly commenced backing, as a collision appeared likely. We were backing when the Belle's starboard wheel struck us, and climbed clear over our bow. We had a narrow escape from instantaneous sinking. This put the Belle out of course, and she swung around. She then made up to us, and her officers proffered assistance, if needed. They acted very cleverly, and I can only attribute the accident to a miscalculation of the Belle's pilot."

On Friday evening about three feet of Dam No. 2, located at Port Perry, on the Monougahela river, was washed away. The necessary repairs cannot be made until we have low water, of which there is not much prospect at present. The numerous coal works on the Monongahela above Perry, as well as on the Youghiogheny, will be reason of this accident be compelled to suspend operations until the dam is rebuilt, which, it is feared, cannot be accomplished before fall. As the accident will restrict shipments, it is altogether probable that the price of coal will be affected and enhanced in the down river markets.

The Kate Robinson and Silver Cloud were loading at St. Louis on Friday last for Pittsburgh.

The St. Louis Democrat, of Friday, says: The Belle St. Louis bound down and Kate Putnam up, collided at St. Marys. The first had her wheel house stove in, gallows frame broken, let her wheel down, and ten hours time the crew were engaged in putting her in sufficient trim to resume her trip. The Putnam had some of her chocks knocked off, and resumed her trip to this port with a tarpauline over her bow, evidence that she sustainod considerable injury. We are informed that the Belle St. Louis was making a landing, when the Putnam came up and ran into her.

The little propeller Carrie Williams was sold at Louisville Wednesday, to Louis Krutz, for fifteen hundred dollars.

Capt. John H. Sterrett, of Texas, is in Louisville, for the purpose of contracting for a new boat for the Texas trade. He will probably contract with the Messrs. Howard.

The Messrs. firm of Larry Harmstad & Co., steamboat agents and proprietors of the city wharfboat, is dissolved, Rob Gibson going out and Captain Larry Harmstad continuing the business, having purchased the interest of the retiring partner.

The steamer Gassamer arrived at Shreveport from Fulton, which port she left on 12th inst. She reports Upper Red River falling fast. Only a few low plantations were injured by the last high water.

The Atlantic Steamship Company has sold the Julia to Captains Lockhart and Bofinger and others, for $25,000. She will continue in the Vicksburg and Saint Louis trade.

The Mobile Register of the 16th says: Captain Charley Norton, of the Vigo, has just concluded the contract for the building of a fine new side wheel steamer for the through trade between Montgomery and New Orleans. She will be built at Louisville, we believe, will be completed in September, and will be about the size of Reindeer.

The Nashville Union says: S. W. Adkinson has issued a circular proposing to deaden the large timber on the banks of the river, to improve the navigation. The caving of the banks and the falling of green trees obstruct and endanger navigation, whereas, if deadened it would fall and float away.

A Louisville telegram, under date of Thursday, says: Major Butler has closed all his contracts for his new propeller. She is to be 150 feet long and 30 feet beam, with five feet hold. She is to be a trading and pleasure boat combined, and is to be fitted out in the finest oriental style. Captains DeHaven and Montgomery have not yet closed their contracts for the mammoth low pressure. Freights along the lower Ohio is extremely scarce. The only freight engagement of the Indiana for New Orleans is 300 bales hay. The Hercules and Bengal Tiger are due to-night.

The Bart Able reports her time from New Orleans to Shreveport, "including landings, fifty-eight hours and forty-five minutes; had 300 tons of freight; making the quickest business trip ever made between the two ports." Her rival, the Lafourche, reports her time as "fifty-four hours and fifty-three minutes, best time on record," and her time from Shreveport to New Orleans as forty hours and fifty minutes.

The St. Marys left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Thursday evening: she had among other items of freight, 600 sacks of wheat, and 27 hhds tobacco.

Capt. De Haven, who has been "bobbing around" for the past year on different visionarp plans for building something new in the way of a steamboat, likewise Micawber has "turned up" again. The Louisville Courier says:

Capt. D; De Haven, together with Capt. J. Ed. Montgomery and others are in the city for the purpose of contracting for a mammoth low pressure steamer, in accordance with the plans heretofore published from the estimates of Capt. De Haven. We learn that citizens of Memphis agree to stock to the extent of $100,000, Chicago $50,000, and New Orleans parties are also pledged to aid the enterprise. We hope they will succeed, and that in less than two years packets will be plying regularly between this port and New Orleans, and making the trip from New Orleans in four days.

The St. Louis Dispatch says: The contract for transporting about six hundred tons of government freight to the Upper Missouri is reported to have been awarded to Captain Kountz, though there is no sure thing he will get it, on account of some unfairness charged, and to which the balance of the bidders have sent in a written protest.

AN OLD FASHIONED RATIFICATION.

The rousing meeting of Saturday night did honor to the Republicans of these cities and the county. There were no guns, bonfires or fireworks to attract a multitude, the evening was wet and disagreeable, and, beyond the notices printed in the daily press and the small "posters" which were distributed about the town and its vicinity, there was absolutely nothing but the strength of the ticket, of our political principles, and of the deep and resolute feeling of our Republicans, to call out the overflowing and demonstrative crowd which filled the City Hall.

We print this morning a very full report of the proceedings of the meeting, the resolutions adopted, and of the eloquent speeches which gave expression to Allegheny county's ratification of the action taken at Chicago. But no language of ours can do adequate justice to the enthusiastic spirit which was displayed by this great gathering. Each mention of the names of our candidates, each allusion, however remote, to the services and merits of GRANT and COLFAX, were welcomed with hearty and prolonged applause. The resolutions, which have the true ring of an uncompromising loyalty, were carried in a whirlwind of cheers, while the speeches were effectively pointed and eloquent, and it was noticeable that the more radical the utterance, the more prompt and decided was the popular response.

When a delegate pledged this county for ten thousand majority for GRANT and COLFAX, and when the pledge was ratified by such a demonstration as that of our Republicans on Saturday night, it may as well be understood at once that it was no idle vaunt. Our Republicans mean business, and intend to back up their opinions.

And now for work, boys!

SENATORIAL PURITY is likely to be most unpleasantly illustrated by the results of the investigation which is now unravelling the mystery of the President's acquittal on the eleventh article by the votes of seven who had previously committed themselves to his conviction. Developments of the utmost importance have been made, fully establishing the fact that undue influences were employed to secure that treachery. And the fact is also reported as clearly established that the plot to defeat impeachment included withal a scheme for the advancement of CHASE as the Conservative candidates for the next President. Every day reveals additional testimony that the great criminal was not honestly acquitted.

THE EIGHTH RESOLUTION in the Chicago platform presents a powerful impeachment of the President, and declares that he has been justly proceeded against "for high crimes and misdemeanors, and properly pronounced guilty thereof by the vote of thirty-five Senators." A motion by COCHRANE, of New York, to add thereto the words, "and improperly acquitted by nineteen Senators," was received by the Convention with an outburst of applause which made it evident that the amendment, if pressed, would be carried. It was felt, however, by judicious and discreet delegates, that the addition was needless, the resolution as reported already expressing the marked judgment of the Convention, and that the spirit of the proposed amendment was the inevitable inference of the language as it stood. The amendment was therefore withdrawn. Recreant Republicans who are impervious to the censure which the resolution conveys, would be equally indifferent to a more specific denunciation. They are lawyers enough to know that the suggestion of one part is the exclusion of another, and that commendation for the faithful conveys a dignified but inevitable reproach for the renegades.

REFORMS IN GREAT BRITAIN.

D'ISRAELI fights every inch of the ground, in the retention of Ministerial power against the Liberal assaults. Mr. GLADSTONE'S motion on Friday for a second reading of the bill suspending the further use of the Royal patronage in the Irish Church Establishment, was urged by that leader as the legitimate sequence of previous votes of the Commons, and of the assent which the Queen had given to the suggestions of their Address. Ministers, on the other hand, resisted it as a misstatement of Her Majesty's reply, as an abuse of the concession to which she had assented, and as unjustifiably stripping the Crown of its greatest prerogatives. The issue of Church and State, and of the supremacy of Protestantism, was directly and unequivocally presented, with a specific precision and confident audacity which manifested the reliance of the Cabinet upon the sectarian fanaticism of the English people for their ultimate triumph. Contending for a great stake, the Administration boldly unmasked their strongest batteries, and the debates, for the first time, in plain words and with the most direct reference to the consequences in their train, dealt directly with the underlying vital issues. It was no longer a skirmish upon the exterior lines, but a hand-to-hand fight for the key of the position. Evidently, the debate of Friday last, and its result, a majority of fifty-four for the Liberals on Mr. GLADSTONE'S motion, was the most significant and decisive development we have yet seen of the tendencies and the strength of Democratic Progress in Great Britain.

Any other Ministry than the present, would now abandon the contest. The last and most effective resistance has been made; Royal prerogative, Protestant supremacy, the hereditary attachment of Englishmen to Constitutional privileges, never before disputed as the right of the Crown, the yet deeper religious feeling of the Nation—all have been appealed to, and the result is another defeat. The Liberal majority is only reduced from sixty-six to fifty-four, and this result, showing the futility of further argument, leaves Mr. D'ISRAELI in a minority more than ever hopeless.

The progress of events is rapidly forcing the English Cabinet to a new Parliamentary election or a surrender, and not even their prompt concessions on the Scotch and other questions of Representative Reform can save them. The defeat of last Friday was hopeles and irreparable.

THERE is no doubt that a corrupt bargain was consummated at Washington, last Saturday week, by which, for a price, the hopes of the country were frustrated, and the just expectations of a great party betrayed. So far as this price was pecuniary, Senators, who bartered their oaths, their patriotism and their personal honor, probably received the consideration in hand, and the low cunning of the contracting parties may prove successful in baffling the investigation now going on. And, so far as the plot contemplated the defeat of Senator WADE as a candidate at Chicago, their cabal has also proved successful. But we have good cause to rejoice that the considerations for this infamous treachery have failed in all other respects. The Chief Justice, who would have ensured his own elevation to the Presidency, has only achieved the extinguishment of all his hopes forever. One week ago, we declared that he would only hereafter be "remembered as the chief traitor in an abortive cabal," and events, which these momentous times are rapidly evolving, have already marked the accuracy of the prediction. Mr. CHASE has dragged after him, in his erratic shoot from the well defined orbit of an honorable and consistent statesmanship, no following whatever, beyond the ruined Senators who were his co-plotters in this intrigue. Neither he nor they have seduced one Republican vote to their support. Even the Southern blacks, who a twelve month since regarded the Chief Justice as the highest embodiment of their hopes of political liberty, now turn from him, disgusted and estranged forever. All the parties to this intrigue are hereafter to be, if not unknown, at least infinitesimal quantities in American poltics, and their only remaining hope is that the country which has discarded them may cover their memories and their disgrace with the same mantle of oblivion.

WHEN MR. HORACE GREELEY first entered bail for Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS the Conservative journals denounced him with an unmatched furor of malignity. They seemed to have two ends in view, and with about equal earnestness; one, to exhibit how demoniacal they could be in thought and expression; the other, to annihilate the victim of their animosity. Public sentiment was largely on their side; and they improved the opportunity to the utmost. Nor was this an exceptional demonstration. Conservatism uniformly displays itself under this aspect when it has the upper-hand, or fancies it has.

Some of the Conservative journals, which back, if they did not instigate, the course of TRUMBULL, FESSENDEN and Company are now exposed to a storm of popular obloquy and contempt. Instead of meeting the tempest with philosophic composure, they piteously beseech their assailants to show moderation. They dislike the equitable rule, "with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again;" and implore the exercise of charity, forbearance and brotherly kindness. Some of them go so far in whining appeals, as to demonstrate what was suspected, by reason of their bravado and insolence when on the strong side, that they have no genuine courage and self-reliance, but only a wolfish ferocity, which leads them to be fierce in gangs, but sneaking when assailed on equal terms.

THE Evening Advocate newspaper has been purchased by Messrs. Campbell & Young, and is soon to be issued as a penny paper. The first named gentleman has been heretofore an editor of the same journal and is therefore well and very favorably known on this community. The other gentleman comes here from Philadelphia. They have our sincerest wishes for their success.

REPRESENTATION IN NATIONAL CONVENTIONS.

For many years after the formation of the government of the United States, National Conventions for the nomination of candidates for President and Vice President were not invented. Each of the political parties devolved that duty upon its members of the Senate and House of Representatives. After a time these Congressional Caucusses fell into disrepute. Not that they resulted in the nomination of incompetent and inferior men for the highest places of political trust. So far otherwise, it is not disputed that throughout the period covered by the use of that instrumentality the candidates presented to the people were of much greater average excellenee than those brought forward since the introduction of the existing system. But the politicians became jealous of the additional authority conferred on Congressmen, and it was resolved to take from them the privilege of nominating Presidential candidates. To this end the National Convention was devised.

This body was constituted on the plan of a joint meeting of the two Houses of Congress. The representation in it was made equal to that of the Senate and House combined, as the most equitable arrangement possible. The Senatorial delegates were elected by State Conventions; the District delegates by local conferences. Both these classes of delegates were held amenable to instructions by the power respectively appointing them, and by no other. This was a system of genuine representation; equitable, uniform, consistent, harmonious, and easily understood.

Though it comported exactly with the genius of the government, scheming politicians became dissatisfied with it. Hence, they devised the scheme of having the State Conventions appoint the District delegates; which is analagous to having the members of Congress of each State chosen by the Legislature thereof. With this powor of appointment, was logically given the power of instruction; for, by this system, the District delegates no longer represented district constituencies, but were deputies of the State Convention, and bound to do its will. This was a wide and mischievous departure from the idea of keeping the authority as near as possible to the people.

But, it turned out that Delegates appointed in this way, frequently had so much of the instinct of republican loyalty that they would carry out the wishes of the people of their respective districts, rather than the behests of the State Convention. To prevent this insubordination the managing politicians resorted to another scheme. Upon the assembling of a particular delegation they insisted upon the adoption of a rule, whereby the majority was authorized to vote for the minority as well as for themselves. If the minority resisted, they were threatened with expulsion.

Upon the assembling of the Pennsylvania delegation at Chicago, last week, this rule was adopted, together with a supplement providing that any member of the minority who refused to acquiesce in having the majority vote for him, and should appeal to the Convention for the vindication of his rights, should be expelled. This was robbing the minority delegates, and then gagging them so that they might not make complaint.

The rules adopted for the government of the National Convention knocked this infamous arrangement on the head. Those rules provided that the Chairman of each delegation should give in the vote as the individual members expressed their preference, and not otherwise. This was honest, and in accordance with the nature and just use of the National Convention. Of course, the self-constituted managers of the Pennsylvania delegation had to succumb.

The law of National Conventions, so far as relates to the Republican party, may now be taken as settled. We cannot refrain from remarking, moreover, that the law is decided to be as the GAZETTE has steadily maintained it was. If not a few of our political friends in this State have thought us needlessly sensitive and, perhaps, captious, the National Convention adjudged the point we raised intrinsic, if not vital, and coincided with us in its solution.

It is easy to see how the plan of voting which we condemn, and the enjoined silence, which we despise, might enable half a dozen adroit and unprincipled Managers to barter the weight and authority of a delegation in the political shambles, for their own emolument or elevation; but we cannot comprehend that a minority, respectable in capacities and position, will ever submit to the debasement. We rejoice that the minority of the Pennsylvania delegation in the recent National Convention not only asserted their rights, but so asserted them as to obtain a judgment in their favor from the highest tribunal of the Republican party.

This decision is not only just in itself, but must tend, if anything can, to allay that bitterness of faction which dishonors the Republican party of this Commonwealth, and puts its continued success in peril. Shall there not be a truce to this mischievous contention?

WE regret to learn there is a strong probability that the Republicans of the Bradford district will return Rev. GEORGE LANDON to the State Senate. That he possesses uncommon abilities as a debater is acknowledged on all hands, but he has made a reputation in other particulars which renders it highly desirable that he should be remitted to the duties of private life.

THE manufacturers of Pittsburgh, and its vicinity, are again reminded of the very important Convention to be held at Cleveland on Wednesday next, the 27th inst. It is desirable that the leading industries of this region should be fully and competently represented there; and that the proper arrangements be made at once.

A NEW LINE of railway, leading directly from Schuylkill county, Pennsylvania, to the harbor of New York, has been projected, and the surveys for it made. The impulse to this enterprise proceeds from the necessity of additional facilities for the anthracite coal trade.

The Vice Presidency—How the Nomination was Effected.

A Chicago dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette thus describes the scene, and its prominent actors after the fourth ballot of the Convention for the Vice Presidency:

Somebody now wanted to adjourn, but the Convention was as excited as a party of gamblers when the bets range among the thousands, and the hands have been dealt out, and no suggestions of dinner could be tolerated, the third ballot showed few changes, save that Colfax gained here and there a few votes. Wilson lost and Curtin ran down to the solitary vote of his own State. The crisis was now known by everybody to be at hand, when Col. Alex. M'Clure, of Pennsylvania, one of the sarewdest wire-pullers in that State of wire-pullers, took the platform to read a letter of withdrawal from Governor Curtin. Pennsylvania had fifty-two votes. Where would they go? Wade had reason to expect them, and it was pretty certain that wherever their weight was thrown victory would perch. Evidently Pennsylvanians themselves saw their power, and fully appreciated the situation. The tendency still appeared to be toward Wade as the call progressed. Wilson last on all hands till like Curtin he seemed passing out of the list of candidates, but when Ohio was called her own vote for Wade was one weaker. The same four had voted again for Colfax with Hemphill, of Ripley, who had joined them on the third ballot, and they were now further reinforced by John Campbell, of Ironton. Pennsylvania coming next, cast 33 votes for Wade, and rousing cheers went up at this significant addition, but the rest of her strength went for Colfax. Wade had in all 204 votes, Colfax had 186, Fenton was only holding his own. The next ballot told the tale. McLure now swung his Pennsylvania balance the other way. He had first tried to produce a break for Wade; he now tried it for Colfax. The vote of Wade came down from 33 to 20, and 30 were cast for Colfax. The sensation was decided, and Iowa, eager at any rate for Colfax, jumped at the chance to begin the break. Its chairman shouted that Iowa withdrew the votes from Fenton, and cast its full vote solid for Colfax. An instant before the cheers had fairly begun, McLure was up: "Pennsylvania asks to change her vote. She casts her 52 voted solid for Schuyler Colfax." The work was done. What followed was a mere scramble for precedence in the race for changing off to Colfax. The Indianians cheered till their throats gave out. The galleries, which seemed to sympathize strongly with Colfax from the start, prolonged and intensified the uproar; and with a struggle between New York and Ohio as to who should have the honor of moving that the nomination be made unanimous, the name of Schuyler Colfax, the printer boy of South Bend, was placed beside that of Grant, the tanner of Ripley, on the Presidential ticket.

Another dispatch says: "Colfax had the advantage from the start, that there was no person in the Convention for the especial purpose of beating him. Men had come determined to beat Fenton and Wade and Wilson, but nobody seemed determined or anxious to beat Colfax. He was the second choice of nearly every delegate, though the first choice of comparatively few."

A dispatch to the New York Tribune says: "Mr. Brown, a delegate from Allegheny, Pennsylvania, rose and nominated Schuyler Colfax. He said that his delegation had been instructed by the State Convention to support Andrew Curtin, but that he could not, for the constituency which he represented, who never gave less than 10,000 Republican majority, had indicated their first and last choice to be that true and upright Republican, Schuyler Colfax. This was the occasion of some confusion; it apparently took everybody but the Pennsylvania delegates by surprise. Order was soon restored, however, by the excellent management of President Hawley, who, by the way, has filled the position most creditably. The nomination of Colfax by Brown was not according to the plan prescribed by his friends, and, when order had been restored, ex-Senator Lane, of Indiana, rose and in a most eulogistic speech of ten minutes formally nominated Mr. Colfax as the choice of his native State, Indiana."

THERE is a probability that the Senate may not complete its judgment on the Impeachment Articles to-morrow. A proposition for a further adjournment is urged in many quarters, and may be approved by the majority. Their decision is, however, understood to depend somewhat upon the truth of the current rumors that new articles are to be presented by the House, based in part upon the President's original assumption of illegal authority in organizing provisional governments for the rebel States, and in part upon the results of the pending inquiry into the charges of corruption against Senators.

THE Ohio Democracy are much vexed at present by the perverse obstinacy of the Common Pleas Judges who, all over the State, concur in charging their grand juries that the new Democratic "visible admixture" law is in conflict with the uniform decisions of the Supreme Court, and is manifestly unconstitutional. Judge TUTTLE, in Trumbull county, the other day, afforded the fourth or fifth instance of a "factious opposition" in this respect to the behests of the Democracy, who, very naturally, complain that they can place no reliance upon the Judiciary this side of Washington City.

Washington Topics and Gossip.

The Conservatives of the Senate, on Monday, will call for a Committee of Investigation to probe the charges of Col. Cooper against Senator Pomeroy.

The witnesses examined on Friday by the Impeachment Managers were Colonel Henderson, an Indian agent, Perry Fuller, "Sunset" Cox, Samuel Ward, Treasurer Spinner and J. F. Leggett. Cox testified that he was at a dinner given to the President's counsel by Woolev, but nothing beyond Joe Miller's jokes, revamped by Cox, could be recollected by witness. Henderson, Fowler and Ward, refused to tell what they did with the money they drew from the bank. It was used, as they said, for purposes wholly foreign to the inquiry on foot, and was no business of the Committee.

A N. Y. Times dispatch says Leggett testified that he had never read or delivered a letter from Senator Pomeroy to Colonel Cooper, and as far as he knew Pomeroy never wrote or authorized the writing of such a letter.

The Intelligencer is full of hints and suggestions that General Grant should resign. These are evidently inspired from the White House, and it is certain that nothing injurious which can come from that quarter will be left unsaid. It is enough to say that the idea meets with universal condemnation from the Republicans here, who would regard Grant's resignation as an unmitigated misfortune, and it is not believed that the wish so ardently felt by Mr. Johnson will be gratified until after November.

The stream of callers which has been pouring in upon Grant since the nomination has begun to diminish, nearly all the Republicans in the city of any note having already paid their respects to him. The General has received a telegram from Gen. Hawley, announcing that the committee to give him official notice of his nomination will be here on the 29th instant.

THE NOMINATIONS.

We have [illegible] space, as we would desire, for the w[illegible] of cheer with which GRANT, COLFAX [illegible] the Union are received by the Republi[illegible]urnals of the country. The annex[illegible]ts fairly represent the spirit which [illegible]s our cotemporaries, and afford [illegible]o the assurances of triumph whi[illegible]ywhere expressed.

The Tribune says: Gen Grant will rec[illegible]otes from reconstructed rebels [illegible] be obtained for any other ma[illegible]ht gallantly, successfully for the [illegible]faithful to his country and her fla[illegible]s ever a magnanimous foe; and n[illegible] is more anxious than he that the bloody, hateful past should be speedily obscured by a genuine fraternity and mutual good will. He fought not to degrade and destroy, but to exalt and to save. There is no other American in whom all interests and all sections cherish so profound a trust as in Ulysses S. Grant. Hence, the stength evinced by Republicans in intermediate contests will be no measure, no test. of that which will be developed when the people come to vote consciously for him.

Our candidate for Vice President has proved as invincible in the area of intellectual struggle for Liberty and Loyalty as our more illustrious candidate for President amid the stern alarums of war.

Messrs. Grant and Colfax are both in the prime of their manly vigor, and in the fullest maturity of their powers. That our too long distracted country is destined, under their auspices, to achieve a speedy and complete restoration of its former prosperity, and more of its former fraternity, we will not cherish a doubt.

The Philadelphia North American says: The republic has successively raised Washington, Jackson, Harrison, Taylor and Pierce to the Presidential office for military services, and not one of them has done in that position any act calculated to render despotism even probable. It refused to elevate Scott to the same position, just as it had rejected Clay, a civilian; so that the failure of the soldier came from no popular doubt as to the safety of electing military men. It is only in cases where great merits of a peculiar character are recognized, or where statesmanship and soldierly science are combined in the same person, that the nation seems to take delight in honoring its chieftains. Grant is of the race of American commanders whose prudence and modesty in peace commend them to the admiration of the people.

The Philadelphia Press says: More than any other leading man in the country perhaps, Mr. Colfax is a true and accurate representative of the average American citizen—honest, intelligent, law-loving, and believing with a firm faith in the institutions and government which has made us the envy of nations. Quiet, modest, but determined and true; beyond suspicion of comprise or bargain, he is emphatically the representative product of our new civilization.

Beyond his other qualifications, industrial Pennsylvania will remember with pleasure that Mr. Colfax stands pledged to protection His speech in this city last summer, at National Hall' settles that, and will commend him to the workingmen and capitalists of the State, independent of politics. They know well by a former fatal experience that Democracy is not to be trusted on free trade. We offer them to-day a Republican Vice President who will never throw a casting vote against our forges, furnaces, and mills.

RIO JANEIRO advices represent that the American Minister, Mr. Webb, urges Brazil and the other belligerent powers to accept the mediation of the United States in their quarrel with Paraguay, and it is said he has told the Emperor of Brazil that unless the war is soon ended the Government of the United States will intervene to prevent further bloodshed. Webb had sent important dispatches by the United States steamer Wasp to Mr. Washburne, the United States Minister to Paraguay.

"BLESSINGS BRIGHTEN AS THEY TAKE THEIR FLIGHT."

Home, friends and all the enjoyments of life seem infinitely more dear to the sufferer from nervous debility when the probability is that, ere long, he must leave them forever. When the health has become impaired, and the strength is failing, then life looks more alluring. Stimulants are the only means of restoration in cases of nervous debility. The great difficulty has been to provide a stimulant possessing not only medicinal merit, but one affording permanent relief. If HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is resorted to in such cases, its beneficial effects will soon become apparent in the buoyancy of spirits and renewed strength of the hitherto dejected patient. Experience has proved this preparation to be "the Remedy of the age" for nervous debility, as well as all diseases arising from derangement of the stomach and liver.

Persons advanced in life, and feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS—an elixir that will instil new life into their veins; restore, in a measure, the ardor and energy of more youthful days; build up their shrunken forms and give health and vigor to their remaining years. Those who are in the least afflicted with Dyspepsia, Ague, Languor, Nausea, or any other troublesome and dangerous disease, arising from a disordered system, should not hesitate to avail themselves of the benefit derived from this great remedy.

The immense quantities of this invaluable tonic that are consumed, and which is steadily increasing, year by year, is sufficient in itself to disarm the most skeptical.

ANOTHER CURE OF DEAFNESS.

I lost my hearing during the last year. Part of the time I was totally deaf. In April of this year I was induced, from an advertisement, to make application to DR. KEYSER, 120 Penn street, Pittsburgh. After having tried various medicines from doctors, without any benefit, I have been under Dr. Keyser's treatment now for nearly two months, and am entirely restored to my hearing, so that I can hear a pin drop. JOHN SCANLAN,

Coal Bluffs, Washington Co., Pa.

ANOTHER CURE.

A man called to-day at Dr. Keyser's office to inform him of a great cure made by his LUNG CURE, or PULMONARY RESTORATIVE. Ilst these cures are made with the Doctor's preparations, he desires it to be distinctly understood that most of his great cures are made in accordance with the established laws that govern the science of medicine, in which he has been engaged for the past twenty-five years. Last week he was also in receipto a letter from a clergyman in the State of Ohio, detailing another most wonderful cure.

CITY OF PITTSBURGH WATER LOAN.

PROPOSALS FOR

$250,000

OF THE

Bonds of the "Water Extension Loan,"

Will be received at the office of the CITY CONTROLLER, Fourth street.

These are COUPON BONDS, bearing interest at the rate of SEVEN PER CENT. per annum, payable semi-annually, at the office of the City Treasurer, and the Bonds are to be paid off in twenty-five years from April 1, 1868.

By Act of Assembly the Revenue of the Water Works is pledged for the payment of the Bonds and Coupons, and the latter are by law made receivable for Water Rents, and the Act authorizing the Loan creates a SINKING FUND of not less than two per cent. of all bonds which may have been issued in pursuance of said Act. The Councils are bound to appropriate annually a sufficient sum for interest, and not less than two per cent. of all bonds which may have issued to go into the Sinking Fund.

The proceeds of these Bonds can only be used for the extension and improvement of the City Water Works, which will increase the revenue, while at present it is far greater than is required to insure the payment of interest and retirement of the Bonds.

The Bonds are EXEMPT FROM STATE, COUNTY and CITY TAX, which, together with all the foregoing advantages, make the Bonds the most desirable security offered to the public.

Bids under par will not be considered.

By order of Finance Committee.

THOMAS STEEL, Controller.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE UNION PACIFIC

RAILROAD COMPANY

OFFER A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THEIR

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

AT PAR,

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST

PAYABLE IN GOLD.

The Great Pacific Railroad Line, extending 1721 miles from Omaha, on the Missouri River, to the tide-waters of the Pacific Ocean, is being built by two powerful Companies—THE UNION PACIFIC, beginning at Omaha, building west, and the Central Pacific of California, beginning at Sacramento, building east, until the two roads shall meet.

Both Companies have prosecuted the work with great vigor, the Union Pacific having already expended over

THIRTY MILLION DOLLARS,

And the Central over TWENTY MILLIONS, upon their respective parts of the undertaking. THE UNION PACIFIC HAVE COMPLETED 550 MILES—have iron and other materials for two hundred miles more upon the ground, and one hundred additional miles are ready for the track. They will have a much larger force employed this year than ever before, and it is expected that between will be in operation during 1868. There seems to be no reasonable doubt that the distance between Omaha and Sacramento will be traversed by rail in 1870.

THE GOVERNMENT GRANTS 12,800 acres of land, and its Bonds to the average amount of $28,000 per mile, to aid in the construction of the line, and authorizes the issue of the First Mortgage Bonds now offered for sale, to the same amount and no more. The Government takes a SECOND lien, and gives to the First Mortgage Bondholder a prior lien for their security, to which a large paid-up capital is added. The Bonds cannot be issued except as each section of twenty miles is accepted by Government commission, so that they always represent a real property.

It is universally admitted that on the completion of the Union Pacific Railroad, its through business will make it one of the most profitable in the world—but its way or local business is already several times the interest on its bonds; so that, if not another mile were built, they would be a secure investment.

THE NET EARNINGS for eight months of last year on an average of 386 miles are officially reported at $1,069,136, while the interest on all the Bonds it could issue on that length of road for that time, reduced to currency, was only $345,856.

The amount paid by the Government for the transportation of troops, munitions, stores and mails has been, and doubtless will continue to be, much more than the interest on the United States Second Mortgage Bonds. If it is not, the charter provides that after the road is completed, and until said bonds and interest are paid, at least five per cent. of the net earnings of the road shall be applied to such payment.

The Union Pacific Bonds are for $1,000 each, and have coupons attached. They have thirty years to run, and bear annual interest, payable on the first days of January and July, at the Company's Office in the City of New York, at the rate of six per cent. in gold. The Principal is payable in gold at maturity. At the present rate of gold, these bonds pay an annual income on their cost of

NEARLY NINE PER CENT.,

AND IT IS BELIEVED THAT THEY WILL SOON BE AT A PREMIUM.

The Company have but a very limited supply of their Bonds remaining on hand, but any subscriptions accepted to a greater amount than can be filled from Bonds now in the Company's possession, will be supplied from the New Bonds to be issued on that portion of the road completed in the Spring, in the order in which they are received.

The Company reserve the right to advance the price of their bonds to a rate above par at any time, and will not fill any orders or receive any subscriptions on which the money has not been actually paid at the Company's office before the time of such advance.

Parties subscribing will remit the par value of the bonds and the accrued interest in currency at the rate of six per cent. per annum, from the date on which the last coupon was paid. Subscriptions will be received in Pittsburgh by

JAMES T. BRADY & Co., corner of Wood and Fourth Streets;
HART, CAUGHEY & Co., corner of Wood and Third Streets;
S. McCLEAN & CO., 75 Fourth Street;
PH. R. MERTZ, corner 5th and Wood Sts.;
ROBINSON BROS., 78 Fourth street;

AND IN NEW YORK

At the Company's Office, No. 20 Nassau Street, and by JOHN J. CISCO & SON, Bankers, No. 59 Wall Street, and by the Company's advertised agents throughout the United States.

Remittances should be made in drafts or other funds par in New York, and the Bonds will be sent free of charge by return express. Parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A PAMPHLET AND MAP FOR 1868 has just been published by the Company, giving fuller information than is possible in an advertisement, respecting the Progress of the Work, the Resources of the Country traversed by the Road, the Means for Construction, and the Value of the Bonds, which will be sent free on application at the Company's offices, or to any of the advertised agents.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, May 23, 1868.

The gold market shows a remarkable steadiness; the quotations to-dav have been 139¾, without any variation whatever. The shipments of specie to Europe have been again as heavy as the week before, three million dollars, which were covered by California shipments of half a million for private parties, and a like amount for the United States Treasury—the balance had to come from the reserve. At almost any other time prior to this, this enormous export would have caused apprehensions and induced people to buy on speculation for a rise, but the stagnation of business and the fear that the Government might sell its large reserve prevents parties from buying at present. Taking our political status in consideration, the premium should decline the moment any reliable estimate could be made of our next crops, but fair prospects will lead to heavier importations which operates like a check against any decline.

Government bonds remained barely steady; the excitement to buy and hold for higher prices is evidently over, and on a careful examination of the records of the markets in the last seven years it will be found that whenever prices of governments have gone up rapidly in New York, a large supply from the interior has covered all that the market would take. In view of the rapid but steady advance heavy contracts for future delivery have been made by parties who have the means to put prices up or put them down, and if its to their advantage to see the market lower, they can put it down 2 or 3 per cent. As an investment at present prices, bonds will scarcely yield more than 6 per cent.

Stocks are firm; all eastern shares are improving; Fort Wayne keeps up close to 110, which it had touched yesterday; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, Rock Island and the North Western shares are firm, but dealings are light. In Bank and Insurance stocks little is done, and our Railroad securities are not in demand, in fact are very difficult to place at any price.

Money is tightening up again, although business is dull, and 10 to 12 per cent is paid for all well secured obligations, except at bank, where a fair balance is kept.

Closing quotations as received by Ph. R. Mertz, were as follows:

Gold, 139¾; 1881 bonds, 115; 1862 5-20s, 110¾; 1864 do, 108¾; 1865 do, 108½; Consols, 110¾; 10-40s, 104¾; 7-30s, 108¼.

Railroads—Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 87¼; Fort Wayne, 109½; North Western, common 66¾; North Western—preferred, 77¾; New York Central, 129⅝; Erie, 69; Old Southern, 87⅞; Ohio & Mississippi, 30½; Merchants Union Express, 28¾; Western Union Telegraph, 37¾. Mining Shares—Corydon, 25; Quartz Hill, 90; Quicksilver, 30⅜.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, May 23, 1868.

There is but little that is really new to be said in regard to the general market. The operations in most of the leading articles have been somewhat restricted for some time past, and while the demand is confined almost wholly to supplying immediate wants, as both dealers and consumers seem disposed to curtail as much as possible; there is, nevertheless, a fair volume of business in the aggregate. In values, there have been some changes during the past week, none of which, however, are worthy of special notice.

APPLE BUTTER—Is quiet but steady with regular sales at 80c to $1 per gallon, as to quality.

APPLES—In light supply and quiet but unchanged, at $6 to $7 per bbl, according to quality.

BUTTER—Is a perfect drug, as the market is completely glutted; nearly everybody seems to have the article for sale, and buyers are remarkably scarce. Good to choice Roll may be quoted at 20 to 25c.

EGGS—Unchanged at 20c.

SEEDS—Flaxseed is in demand and scarce but unchanged at $2,50 to $2,55. No demand whatever for Clover or Timothy.

GRAIN—Winter Wheat is scarce and in fair milling demand with sales of Red at $2,65 to $2,68; White 5 to 8c higher. Oats firm with sales on wharf and track at 83 to 85c, and in light supply. Corn is still quoted at $1,05 for White and mixed, and $1,10 to $1,12 for prime Yellow. Rye is firm at $2,00.

DRIED FRUIT—Firm but unchanged; sales of Peaches at 12 to 14c; and Apples at 6¼ to 7½c.

POTATOES—The market is less active and a little dull, under the influence of influence of increased arrivals. Sales of prime Peach Blows in store at $1,50 per bushel.

SALT—Sales of Allegheny River brand to the trade at $1,75 to $1,80, and $2 for small lots in store.

HAY—Baled Hay is selling on wharf at $20 to $25 for fair to prime. Wagon Hay may be quoted at $24 to $28 per ton, as to quality.

PROVISIONS — Bacon is quiet but steady at former quotations. We continue to quote at 14½c for Shoulders; 16½ to 18 for Ribbed and Clear Sides; 20 to 21c for Plain and Canvassed Sugar Cured Hams. Lard, 19¼ to 19½c. Mess Pork, $29.

LARD OIL—Unchanged at $1,25 for No. 2, and $1,50 for No. 1.

HOMINY—Is dull and Unchanged; sales at $6 to $6,25.

FLOUR—The Flour market has been remarkably quiet during the past week, and while there is an easier feeling, prices are unchanged. We quote at $11,25 to $11,75 for Spring Wheat; $12,50 to $13 for Winter Wheat; and $14 to $16 for fancy brands. Rye Flour, $10 to $10,25.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, May 23, 1868.

CRUDE—The Crude market has been comparatively quiet during the past week and subject to but very slight fluctuation in value, and the sales, in the aggregate have been unusually small. In the early part of the week business was very dull and to effect sales, holders were obliged to make a slight concession. Since then, however, under the influence of reports that the then expected "corner" was likely to be a success, the market stiffened slightly, spot oil advancing from 10½ to 11c, at which figure it was held firmly all day. June and July may be quoted at 11½c, seller's option, and the balance of months, from July to December, with specified amount to be delivered each month, sold at 12c. There is a fair amount of oil in this market at present, estimated in round numbers at three hundred thousand barrels, but the great portion of this it should be borne in mind, is in the hands of refiners and speculators, so that the quantity of oil really in the hands of legitimate Crude dealers and for sale, is much smaller than many have been led to suppose. A telegram from Oil City quotes the market dull at $3,70 to $3,75 on creek, and $3,95 to $4 at that point.

REFINED—There has been considerable excitement in the market for bonded oil this week, occasioned by an expected "corner," which was to have occurred on Thursday or Friday, but which, according to the tenor of our advices to-day, was, to say the least, a partial failure. It would appear that all of our refiners who had been "called" promptly responded to the call by having their oil on hand at the required time, and we learn that when delivered was just as promptly paid for. The parties who called, we have no doubt, thought that many of the sellers would not be able to deliver, and in that event, they would advance the price of spot oil to 35c, per bbl, 40c, and make the poor refiner pay the difference, and this is what "cornerers" were after; it was the little differences they were after, not the oil, but, unfortunately for them, they got all the oil and no differences. To-day, it was said that 28c was the best offer for spot oil, though there were no sellers below 30 to 31c, and so far as we could learn, there were no sales. Now that the "agony" is over, we are in hopes that business will improve, and that it will be more legitimate and less speculative.

ARRIVALS—The arrivals of oil reported to-day were as follows:

Fulton, M. & Co... 160 | Bly & Pink'to
Lockhart, F. & Co 84 | Fisher & Bro.

The Wine Vaults of Xerez.

orrespondent of the Providence Jour- as been taking a look into the sherry ts of Xerez, Spain, which he thus de-es:

e imagines, when speaking of wine ts, chambers, deep under ground, dark a damp, and filled with cobwebs and ld. But those of Xerez are of entirely rent kind. Sherry will not bear being in cellars where it is exposed to mois-e and mould, but must always be stored dry, airy places, where no damp can ch it. The wine vaults at Xerez, then, e built on this principle, and consist of rge stone buildings erected on the ground, rhaps two hundred feet long, one hun-red wide, and from the floor to the centre of the roof some forty feet high. At the top of the solid stone walls forming the sides, are numerous grated windows, through which a constant current of air is flowing. In these rooms or vaults stand he long rows of pipes containing the wine led three tiers high. There the wine re-ains, year after year, evaporating, concen-rating, and of course increasing in value nstantly, until at last it changes from the ght colored, raw sherry into a dark, thick, murky-looking wine, which demands a most abulous price.

We began with the vaults containing the lower priced wines, about $300 per pipe, and small glasses of it were kindly given us. We then passed into another large vault, where the higher priced wines are kept, and again samples of the various kinds were submitted for our examination. First we had a sherry at $400 in gold per pipe, and it certainly was a superb article. Then came a dry sherry, at $500 per pipe, but to one with a taste not accustomed to it, it is generally not as pleasant as the common sherry. Then came sweet wines, which the ladies declared delicious, but the gentlemen disliked. As we proceeded we tasted sherry of every kind, at $600, $750, $850 and $900 per pipe, but being unused to these rich old wines we one and all preferred the $400 to the $900 sherry.

At last we were conducted to an immense cask, named "Napoleon," from which was drawn a dark, murky looking wine, which seemed as "solid" as a wine could be. Upon tasting it, we declared it admirable, but it was a sherry so valuable that no price has been set on it, because no one would be willing to pay what it is really worth. In 1730 this house possessed twenty-five casks of what was then known to be at least twenty-five years old sherry. From that time to this they have zealously kept this wine, until from evaporation the quantity has been reduced so that it now fills but five casks, and to-day they exhibit this wine, whose value might be reckoned at so much per drop, to show what sherry will eventually become from age and concentration. Let no one hope ever to taste the best of sherry, unless he makes a pilgrimage to Xerez, and drinks at the monster cask "Napoleon."

As will be seen from the prices, if you drink good wine, you must pay high for it. A pipe of wine contains one hundred and eight gallons, and each gallon fills five bottles. At $100 per pipe, it is worth almost ninety-two cents per gallon, and eighteen cents per bottle. At $400 per pipe, about $3.70 per gallon, and seventy-five cents per bottle. At $900 per pipe, it is about $8.33 per gallon, and $1.67 per bottle. When, therefore, one buys at home good sherry wine at $2 per bottle, in currency, it is hardly to be supposed that, after deducting the custom dues, the freight expenses, and the heavy per centage realized by the American wine merchant, it would prove to be a very high priced wine in Xerez, if indeed it were so fortunate as to come from there at all. But "where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly," &c., &c.; and if my friends at home are content with the article they generally find for sale there, it is better that I say no more about the wine vaults of Xerez and genuine sherry.

A Short-Dress Ball.

A ball was recently given in Paris by the Countess Pountess Pourtalès, for the purpose of introducing the fashion of short ball-dresses. A correspondent says:

"The entrance gallery on Friday night as converted into a conservatory of exotic ants, and was furthermore lined by a regi-ent of footmen, powdered and wearing veries of the time of Louis XVI. Beyond ese a small army of maitres d'hotel, like-vise powdered and in costume, each carry-ng a halberd, were marshalled on each step of the marble staircase leading to the recep-tion rooms. The number of invited guests did not exceed three hundred and twenty; young ladies were rigorously excluded. The salons were perfect bowers of flowering lants, and at each corner of every room were huge masses of ice in gilt baskets, surrounded by fresh hot-house roses. The all was opened by Madame de Pourtales nd the Duke de Mouchy, her costume be-ng of Louis XIV.'s time, white gauze rewn over with fresh primroses and starred ith diamonds; her high-heeled shoes of reen satin, adorned with a fly in emeralds and diamonds.

"The Austrian ambassadress wore a short dress of blue silk, watered in wavy lines to imitate the sea, and caught up with nenu-phars; Countess de Jancourt, in tulle of etternish green and mignonette; Baroness thschild, gray tulle and wallflowers; the ithful bride, Duchess de Montmorency, hite lilac and roses on point d'Alencon, n diamonds scattered along the falling es of her magnificent hair. Worth, the oser of these millinery triumphs, is an rat before whom ambassadors and esses are compelled to bend. The ess de Castries received her dress at the morning, Madame d'Hansfeld at t two; these fair ladies had, there-advantage of arriving in fresh toi-hen their friends were already g over crushed roses and torn ration of Union Soldiers' Graves.

Louisville, Ky., Democrat, has an t of a meeting held in that city last to arrange for the decoration of the s of the Federal soldiers in Cave Hill ery. Col. Whitman, who has been ge of the construction of the nation-eteries in the West, said he had spent ears and a half among the dead and in ting their records. Since the issue of rder of Gen. George H. Thomas, in De-mber, 1863, to provide for the interment of those who fell near Chattanooga and at Stone River, over one hundred thousand dead have been carefully re-intered and proper registers made in this department. Of these there are at Natchez, 3,000; Vicksburg, 17,000; Memphis, 14,000; Corinth, 6,000; Pittsburg Landing, 5,000, Nashville, 17,090; Stone River, 5,000; Chattanooga, 15,000; Andersonville, 13,000, and Kentucky, 14,960. Of these latter there are buried at Perryville, 1,430; at Camp Nelson, 1,611; at Logan's Cross Roads, 791; at London, 2,69; at Lebanon, 868; at Lexington, 822; at Danville, 355; at Richmond, 241; at Frankfort, 111; at Covington, 441; at Corinth, 13; 1,092 have been removed from Bowling Green, and 3,861 at Cave Hill. These dead soldiers represent 596 regiments.

Royalty.

The London Review has the following. Does it specially refer to any one?

A prince or king of England has now so many ways of enjoying himself—he can command so much of what is called pleasure—that he ought to be able to bear the yoke of such mild restraint as public opinion finds to be necessary. Then we are always very charitable to him. He may be a fool, and yet we are loyal to him. He may have a peevish childishness of temper, forever driving away from him the men most fitted to guide him, and yet we are loyal to him. He may neglect every one of the implied duties of royalty—he may withhold his patronage from men of art, science, and literature, and shower it upon mountebanks and parasites, and yet we are loyal to him. He may be guilty of extravagance and run into debt, which he can never hope to pay; we seize every appropriate opportunity to increase his income, and allow him to lead a comfortable life. The least, therefore, that we can expect from him is a becoming consideration for the outward conventionalities of society. He knows that every little effort in this way—every trifling kindness or courtesy—will be estimated at a hundred times its ordinary value; and knowing this, and having at his command all the possibilities of his position, it must be entirely the fault of his own perverseness if he is disliked or unpopular.

Rat-Killing.

Recent experiments show that squills (Scylla maritima,) the enormous bulbous root of which is much used in medicine, is not only a powerful poison for rodents, but also one they are very fond of. The way of preparing it for the desired purpose is as follows: One of the bulbs is cut into slices, hashed and bruised, then done in the pan with fat, which is afterward strained through a cloth and poured into broken plates and saucers, to be placed in the cellars and other places infested with with rats, mice, &c. To prevent dogs and poultry from eating of this poisonous compound in stables, pigeon houses or farm-yards, it may be put into a wooden box, about a foot and a half long, and having a hole at each end. The rat goes in at one end and goes out at the other, after partaking of the noxious food, which soon kills it. Squills may also be reduced to powder for the same purpose by bruising them in a mortar to a pulp, which is afterward incorporated with as much flour as it will hold. This paste is then rolled out, as they do for a pudding, then cut into shreds, which are left to dry on hurdles or on sheets of pasteboard, and are afterward pounded in a mortar. The powder thus obtained will keep for years, and may be put into boxes or barrels. If manufactured on a large scale it may become a profitable article of exportation. In Algeria squills cost nothing, the country being absolutely overrun with them.

A German physician reports that he has traced six cases of lead colic and paralysis to the use of tobacco held in leaden boxes. A French physician asserts that tobacco held in lead foil, improperly called tin foil, will finally become impregnated with a poisonous salt of lead.

Car Heater and Moderator,

For SMOKE AND HOT AIR FLUES, dispensing with the use of Stoves and Fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached.

Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be applied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended. It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues, or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c., wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired. I will sell, on application, rights to manufacture or to use the above invention; also, territorial rights, to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges, either by State or county.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

General Synod of the Reformed Presbyterian Church.

FOURTH DAY—MORNING SESSION.

Synod met at half-past nine o'clock, and was opened with prayer by the Moderator. Minutes of the last session read. A discussion arose as to the remonstrance presented on Friday afternoon from the First Reformed Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia. It was objected that the names attached were not all read. The Clerk stated that the names had not been called for, or they would have been read.

Dr. Wylie stated there was no evidence that the persons were members of the First Church, Philadelphia.

The minutes, after a few verbal amendments, were approved.

The motion to receive the papers, read yesterday, for consideration was renewed.

On this motion there was an extensive discussion. It was contended that there was no evidence whether the papers came in an orderly or disorderly manner.

Dr. Wylie thought the papers contained many unjust statements, and therefore it was a question whether they should be received.

Rev. A. G. Wylie was of the opinion that the Commissioners should be heard, in order that the Synod might learn how they came here.

Rev. Michael Harshaw said this Synod possesses original as well as appelate jurisdiction, and therefore, any person may come before the Synod without coming through a Session or Presbytery.

Dr. McLeod moved the previous question, which was ordered by the Synod. The motion to receive the papers for consideration was adopted.

The documents were then referred to the Committee on Discipline, with power to call for persons and papers.

Dr. McAuley moved that certified copies of the papers be furnished to the Philadelphia Reformed Presbytery.

Dr. McMasters was opposed to the resolution. The papers were voluminous, and the request was unreasonable. He would oppose giving copies of any of the papers except such as might be acted upon.

Rev. Mr. Harshaw thought that those making the demand should pay the expense of transcribing.

The motion was modified to read as follows:

Resolved, That the Moderator of the Philadelphia Presbytery be allowed to take copies of the papers presented from the First Reformed Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, to be certified by the Stated Clerk during the sessions of Synod. Adopted.

Proceeded to the devotional exercises. Rev. A. G. Wylie in the Chair. The following gentlemen took part in the devotional exercises: Rev. Michael Harshaw, Rev. Dr. Wylie, Rev. J. F. Morton and Rev. Nevin Woodside.

Dr. Wylie gave notice that he would protest in his own name, and all who might join with him, against the reception of the papers from the First Reformed Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia.

The credentials of the Rev. Wilson Phraner, alternate delegate to the Synod from the General Assembly (O. S.) were read and he was invited to a seat on the floor of the Synod.

On motion it was resolved that Mr. Phraner be heard on Monday afternoon.

The report of the Ohio Presbytery was read and referred.

The memorial from the First Refomed Presbyterian Church, of Philadelphia, on the subject of Union, was laid on the table.

Mr. John Scott was appointed to receive moneys for the Foreign Missions during the sessions of Synod.

Dr. Douglas gave notice that the Committee on Discipline would meet in his study Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, and also at seven o'clock in the evening. At the evening meeting all the parties in the case of the members of the First Church, Philadelphia, were requested to be present.

Synod adjourned to meet on Monday at half past nine o'clock, Rev. Thomas Johnston concluding by prayer.

Oil Excitement on Church Run.

On Friday last, one of the Robert's torpedoes was exploded in the Eureka well, on Church Run, owned by the Atlantic and Great Western Petroleum Company. Pumping was commenced on Sunday and the first twenty-four hours the Eureka produced one hundred and seventy-five barrels. The well is now pumping and flowing over two hundred barrels per day. This well, as many of the readers of the Herald will recollect, was struck in November, 1865, and led immediately to the large development which we now witness on the territory lying contiguous to ou rcity. For a considerable period the Eureka steadily produced fifty barrels a day, but of late the yield has been dwindling down, it has hardly paid expenses and the owners were about to abandon it entirely. As we remarked before, the Eureka was the occasion of attracting operators to the Church Run territory, but for a long time only small wells were the result of the development.

About two years ago, however, Colonel Roberts operated on the Briggs & Severance well with one of his torpedoes increasing its production thirty or forty barrels a day, and clearly demonstrating the presence of oil in this locality in large quantities.

Last fall, another of Roberts' torpedoes was exploded in the Crocker well, in that vicinity, making it produce as high as eighty barrels a day, the well leaving been a dry hole previous to the use of the torpedo.

We have before referred to the extraordinary success of the Roberts' torpedo; and it would be an interesting estimate, to well owners and producers, to know the extent to which it has benefitted that class, and added to the aggregate production of oil since it first came into use. The Eureka being now one of the best wells of the oil region, clearly demonstrates that there is a vein or basin of oil near this city northwards. A new impetus and activity will be given to development in this vicinity.

The enhanced value of territory, which has resulted from the use of the Roberts' torpedo, may be judged by the fact that land and leases in the Church Run region have come into great demand since Monday.—Titusville Herald of the 21st.

Reversing the Order.

An incident occurred in South Pittsburgh, Saturday, of rather a novel character, which somewhat reversed the order of things. We have frequently heard of horses running away with wagons, but it is very uncommon for wagons to run away with horses, which appears to have been the case in this instance. A wagon heavily loaded with stone, to which was attached four horses, was descending the hill in South Pittsburgh on the road which intersects Carson street at the point where the Panhandle Railroad crosses it, and when on the heaviest grade the lock broke and let the whole weight of the load upon the wheel horses. They endeavored to hold it back, but it proved too heavy for them, and they were compelled to run to keep on their feet. They came down the hill at a fearful rate until they reached the railroad crossing, when the end of the wagon tongue struck one of the piers of the trestle work and was broken. The horses were all four thrown in a heap, and the wagon ran upon them, fatally injuring the saddle horse. The others, fortunately, escaped without meeting any serious injury.

Committed.—Sarah Fairfax, a colored woman residing on Crawford street, acted in a very disorderly manner Saturday morning, and it appears threatened to do violence to Fannie Duelphe, a colored neighbor. Fanale made information against her before Alderman Thomas for surety of the peace. She was arrested and in default of bail committed to jail.

Row on Saw Mill Run.

Yesterday morning a row took place on the Saw Mill Run road, a short distance from Temperanceville, among the coal miners of that region, during which Isaac Christy, constable of Temperanceville, in his endeavors to quell the disturbance, was seriously injured. About ten o'clock some person came to Mr. Christy's house and informed him of the affray, and he repaired to the place immediately for the purpose of quelling it if possible. On arriving there he found Charles McGrogan abusing a stranger; he was holding him by the hair, and had torn nearly all his clothes off. Christy at once interfered and separated the combatants, and in the name of the Commonwealth demanded the peace. Several of the miners, who, it appears, were under the influence of liquor, were somewhat disappointed in not seeing a fight, and they began a tirade of abuse against the officer for interfering. He paid no attention to it, further than to take their names down in his book, and was just turning around to leave the place, the stranger having effected his escape as soon as relieved from the clutches of McGrogan, when he received a blow on the back of the head with a limestone, which cut through his hair and inflicted an ugly wound in his head, penetrating to the skull. It was evidently McGrogan who threw the stone, as there was no one else standing behind him. Christy then returned home, and after having his wound dressed he went to the Mayor's office and made information, charging McGrogan with assault and battery, and Frank O'Neil with interfering with an officer while in the discharge of his duty. Warrants were issued for their arrest.

The Hay Rake "Welcome."

No branch of industry has made more rapid progress and improvement in the way of labor-saving machinery than the agricultural. If some of the old farmers who flourished fifty years ago should be permitted to return to earth and witness the manner in which work is done in this age of improvement, they would doubtless be astonished, and we know of no piece of labor-saving machinery which would create a greater amount of admiration than the Hay Rake "Welcome." By this simple and recent contrivance a boy of ten years will do more work than twenty men could possibly accomplish with the hand rake, and do the work much better. There are a great number of hay rakes in the market but the "Welcome" claims advantages over all. It will, in doing the work on any ordinary farm, save, in gleaning grain and stuble, more than the price of itself. This valuable rake is sold wholesale and retail by W. W. Wallace, 319 Liberty street. Farmers should call and examine it, as they will certainly be convinced of its merits as not only a labor-saver but likewise as a grain and stubble economizer.

Mansfield Grant Club.

The Republicans of Mansfield assembled at Wycoff's hotel, in that borough, on Friday evening, May 22d, for the purpose of perfecting the organization of the Mansfield Grant Club. After the meeting had been called to order the Committee on Permanent Organization, appointed at a previous meeting, submitted the following report, which was unanimously adopted:

President—Col. Russell Errett.

Vice Presidents—J. V. Rowland, Esq., Isaac M. Ross, Joshua Stevenson, William McClarran, W. B. Lea, Esq., Robert Bell, Col. H. Lee and Dr. J. H. Dick.

Secretaries—W. G. Bigham and J. J. Brown.

Executive Committee—John Anderson, John H. Fife, A. G. Negley, B. B. McDowell, J. L. Marshall, H. M. Dowell, John S. McCollough, and W. P. White.

On motion, it was resolved that the regular meetings of the club should be held the first Tuesday evenings of each month.

Col. Errett took the Chair and after a brief address introduced B. F. Lucas, Esq., who entertained the club in his usual happy style.

The meeting then adjourned.

Assault and Battery.

John Sullivan made information before Alderman Thomas Saturday, charging Christ Wehmung with assault and battery. The defendant keeps a saloon at the corner of Fifth and Wylie streets, where, it appears, Sullivan called on Saturday to take a drink. There were several persons in the room, all of whom were called up to drink and Sullivan paid the bill. Before he left the saloon some one else called for the liquor for the party, which was produced and drank, and it appears was not paid for. The party then left the saloon, and in a few hours Sullivan returned to get another drink, when, as he alleges, the accused insisted upon him paying for the the drinks which had been called for by some one else. Sullivan refused to pay the bill, and the defendant he says locked the door and struck him with a club. The accused was arrested and held to bail for his appearance at court.

Painful Accident.

Mr. William Presser, an employé in Hubbard's saw factory, at the corner of Short and Water streets, met with a serious accident Saturday. He was engaged in tempering a saw, for which, it appears, hot oil is used. He had placed the saw at which he was working in a caldron of hot oil, and was in the act of removing it when, by some accident, he slipped and fell with his breast and arms in the oil, buring them in a horrible manner. He was removed to his residence, where his injuries were properly attended to by Dr. Batton.

Allegheny Library—Public Notice.—The Directors of the Allegheny Library Association extend a cordial and earnest invitation to all citizens, male and female, who are interested in the progress of educational institutions to attend the annual meeting to be held this evening at half-past seven o'clock, at the Library in City Hall. It is hoped that all the members will be present. A. LEGGATE, Secretary.

A Wife Beater.—Mrs. Blakely, the wife of Charles Blakely, a dairyman, residing a short distance from the city, made information before the Mayor, on Saturday, charging her husband with assault and battery. She alleges that he beats and abuses her without any cause or provocation. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Assault and Battery.—Charles Stein made information before the Mayor Saturday, charging David Robinson with assault and battery, and malicious mischief. He was held to answer.

A Pleasant Occasion.

On Saturday evening a very pleasant reunion of the employes of the Allegheny Valley Railroad took place at the Keystone Dining rooms, on Liberty street. The affair was gotten up for the purpose of presenting to Mr. W. A. Lee, the late General Freight Agent of the road, with a handsome Howard gold watch and chain, purchased at the establishment of Reineman, Meyran & Siedle, and valued at $350. On the inside of the case the following inscription was engraved, "Presented to W. A. Lee by the employes of the Allegheny Valley Railroad as a token of regard, May 23d, 1868." The presentation speech was made by Mr. T. O'Leary in a very handsome manner. He spoke of the high regard and love which all of the old employes felt towards the recipient, and of the unusual success of the road during his (Mr. L's.) management. In receiving the gift Mr. L. responded briefly but to the point. He said:—Gentlemen, you put me in a rather bad position to-night, but I have to reply. You undoubtedly expect me to make a speech, but public speaking is a branch of ousiness I never attempt. To attempt a reply in fitting terms would be an absurdity, as I have not the ability to do so. With emotion and grateful heart allow me to thank you, and I would here say that the prosperity of the road was by our united efforts. We carried her through many tight places and managed to keep the old machine in motion. If I was ever disposed to be cross and tyranical, it was for the good of the road. In watching and guarding over your end of the road, I am assured now that I kept your esteem, which through weal or woe I will ever prize, and feel grateful for this beautiful token f your regard. Wishing you all long life and prosperity, I bid you come forward and partake of the hospitalities prepared by Mr. Simpson. The party were soon seated around the abundantly supplied tables. All the choice delicacies of the season were laid before them and duly appreciated, as shown by the manner in which they were disposed of. After the cloth was removed, toasts and songs were the order of the balance of the evening. At a seasonable hour the party adjourned, well pleased and looking forward for another such happy occasion. Mr. Lee entered the service of the A. V. R. R. in its infancy and always took a great interest in its prosperity. He had the honor of conducting the first trains over the road to all its openings. He was appointed General Freight Agent in 1861 and filled the position with ability until 1867, when he resigned. In presenting him, by the old employes of the road, at this late date, this beautiful testimonial of their regard, it is shown that their love and respect for him is sincere. May he live long and continue to enjoy the confidence of his fellowmen till the end.

Nose Broken.

A number of deckhands got into a drunken row on the wharf Saturday evening, which terminated rather uncomfortably for James Hopkins. James, it appears, was trying to whip two men at once, when he received a stroke on his nasal organ which completely flattened it, and at the same time flattened him. He was picked up by some of his friends and on examination it was discovered that his nose was broken. He made information charging Joseph Rowe and Christ. Wilbert with assault and battery. He does not know which of the two struck the blow that broke his nose, but alleges that they were both striking at him. They were arrested and held to bail for their appearance at Court to answer the charge.

Seriously Injured.—In Birmingham, on Saturday afternoon, a boy whose name we were unable to learn, was severely if not fatally injured. He was riding in a wagon, the seat of which was very high, and in passing through "Smoky Hollow," on Carson street, he was jolted out and fell in front of the wagon. One of the horses stepped upon him and both wheels of the wagon passed over his body. His leg was broken below the knee and it is thought he received serious internal injuries. He was removed to the residence of his parents on Joseph street.

At it Again.—Anna Dawson made information before the Mayor Saturday against Johny Newell for surety of the peace. Anna alleges that Johny abused her shamefully and threatened to take her life. She has made information for assault and battery, surety of the peace and divers other charges heretofore, but always relents and withdraws them before the day fixed for a hearing comes. Johny was arrested and held for a hearing, but it is not probable Anna will allow the case to go that far.

City Business Tax.—Business men of the consolidated city, who have not already made a return of their business to the City Assessor as a basis for the assessment of the City Business Tax for the present year, are requested to do so immediately, as they will thereby save time, trouble and expense to themselves and the city by so doing. Blanks for the purpose can be obtained at the office of the City Treasurer, on Fourth street.

On the Increase.—Business at the Mayor's office is on the increase. There were twenty-five cases disposed of at the Mayor's Court yesterday, all for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Five of the number were "nymps," who had been arrested for street walking. Eight out of the twenty-five were discharged, eight paid their fines and nine were committed in default of payment.

Frew, Jas. D. Carlisle; Recording Secretary, R. C. Miller; Corresponding Secretary, T. H. Rabe; Treasurer, Jas. D. Carlisle; Councillors, Capt. C. T. Ewing, R. S. Morrison.

Slight Fire.—The alarm of fire between eleven and twelve o'clock, Saturday night from box 21, was occasioned by a very slight fire in the rear of Olnhausen & Crawford's establishment on Wood street. The fire department responded promptly, but before either of the steamers arrived, the fire was extinguished by the application of a few buckets of water.

Break in Dam No. 2.—Friday evening about six o'clock, a serious break occurred in dam No. 2 on the Monongahela river, by which about ten hundred feet of the structure was carried away. The break will not interfere with navigation owing to the present stage of water, and the dam will be repaired as soon as the water falls sufficiently to admit of it.

Allegheny Councils.—An adjourned meeting of Allegheny Councils will be held this evening. The meeting is called for the purpose of establishing the grades on Jallapa and Walker streets in the Fifth ward.

After Pork.—The Mayor is determined to enforce the ordinance prohibiting hogs from running at large in the city, and we learn has instructed officers to take charge of all they find wandering about the streets hereafter.

Firemen's Association.—A speial meeting of the Firemen's Association of this city will be held this evening at half-past seven o'clock, at the Hall of the Association in City Buildings.

Fire in East Birmingham.—A slight fire occurred in a pottery on Joseph street, East Birmingham, Saturday morning, but was extinguished before any serious damage was done.

The following are the particulars as far as known: When the train was taking wood and water at Mansfield, twenty miles below Seymour, a party of robbers seized upon the engine, and disconnecting the car from the train started off in the direction of Seymour. While in motion, they broke into the express car, disabled the messenger and threw him out of the car.
